MAYBE YOU COULD CRACK MY STERNUM

A premiere Australian work Maybe You Could Crack My Sternum has successfully opened at the 2014 Adelaide Fringe to critical acclaim with only three shows remaining.

“ FIVE STARS... Emma Hall and Emma Smith are incredibly talented artists...the lighting, sound and production were excellent... (Sternum is) clever, funny, raw, honest, touching and thought-provoking. See it.”
Rip It Up 3 March 2014

“This is offbeat, original theatre, and an honest and heartfelt glimpse into the lives of two young women.”
Heckler.com.au 2 March 2014

THREE SHOWS REMAINING: TUES 4 MARCH, WED 5 MARCH, THURS 6 MARCH

Intimate and comical, Maybe You Can Crack My Sternum is emmaandemma's first full-length creation premiering at the 2014 Adelaide Fringe. The piece captures a unique and temporary view of friendship from two young women standing on the edge (and not-so-edge) of this fragile and immense thing called adulthood. How do we spend our days? What does it mean to love each other? When is it too hard to help a friend?

Assisted by the intricate design of Taryn Dudley (set) and Raya Slavin (sound), the world created by these young makers is stark and distilled: not-quite-conscious, not-quite-dreamlike, hovering between the known and the unknowable.

emmaandemma is a new company founded by Emma Hall and Emma Smith, who are fast-building a reputation in Melbourne for their playful experimentation with the immediacy, honesty, poetry and body flesh of live theatre.

Cast / Writers: Emma Hall, Emma Smith
Set Design: Taryn Dudley
