

DRUNK DIALS

IFC
always, uncut.

Drunk people say the craziest things, and on every episode of DRUNK DIALS we're taking real outrageous drunk dials and turning them into fun and freaky cartoons!

Animated Reality Series, 13 x 15 minute episodes

What do drunk people love more than another drink? A cell phone. For some reason when people get drunk, there are sudden and urgent matters that need to be settled. That ex-boyfriend needs to know that you're really over him! Your best friend needs to know that you looooooove her forever and ever and ever! And your ex-boss, well if you don't tell him that he's a real dick who wouldn't know talent if it slapped him in the face, who will?!

Out of these drunken revelations have come some of the most impressively hilarious voicemails in history, voicemails that your friends will save to replay again and again. Phone conversations so outrageously funny they warrant more than just replay – they deserve a cartoon.

So on DRUNK DIALS, we're putting fun animation to all sorts of hilariously odd phone calls and voice messages that have been caught on tape.

Like Crank Yankers, this series takes real phone messages and animates the dialogue to fully illustrate just how weird the circumstances of the call might be. We will compile 4 to 5 animated vignettes per every 15 minute episode, and the conversations will range from your average drunken love confession to bizarre calls to parents and bosses.

There are already a bunch of websites that encourage people to leave drunken voicemail messages, like drunkdial.org and slackertown.com. Some cell phone companies have even gone as far as inventing cell phones and services that will prevent you from placing a call that you may regret in the morning. But the fact of the matter is that though they may be embarrassing, DRUNK DIALS can be downright hilarious and the perfect fodder for quick and funny animation.

Format

We'll start by culling the internet and IFC viewers for their favorite and most outrageous drunk dial recordings. From these selections we'll choose the most bizarrely entertaining conversations, and using our in-house graphics department, will flash animate these messages and conversations with insane cartoons to show just what these messages might actually "look" like.

Each episode of DRUNK DIALS will be a compilation of four to five animated drunken phone messages, for an intoxicating and hilarious fifteen-minute sketch of just how crazy things get when you dial drunk.

DRUNK DIALS